

Bringing Active Learning Home, Supporting Parent Workshops in early years settings

What is HighScope?

HighScope is a well-established approach to early childhood education and care which is underpinned by development and learning theory and by long term research. It is an approach that identifies and builds on children's interests and abilities and is used internationally in variety of settings.

What is the Bringing Active Learning Home course?

The course is a series of Parent Workshops in the following areas:

- Active Learning
- Building relationships
- Avoiding power struggles
- Acknowledging feelings
- Singing at home
- Reading books with Children
- Outdoor activities

Who is the course for?

The course is designed to help preschool practitioners and children's' family members to share information about child development, the HighScope Curriculum and how children's' active participatory learning can be extended at home.

The course is for practitioners who wish to learn more about these areas of child development and gain ideas to share with parents to use at home.

The course will explore how to introduce HighScope through these parent Workshops which view parents as partners in active learning.

Publications relating to the course will be included as part of the course.
